Enclosure

Child files continue to show steady improvement in terms of content as well as consistency. While there were few ISPs to review due to the short length of placement (typically less than 30 days) in the diagnostic setting, those that were reviewed were individualized and of good quality. All timeframes for both required health screenings as well as therapeutic activities were met. Correspondence sent to parents continues to be detailed and highly explanatory. As for staff files, all physicals, health statements, and clearances were in order. Training generally exceeded required levels. The Human Resources department was seen as a strongpoint in terms of maintaining complete and organized files.
During the walk through inspections of the physical facility, the vast majority of youth observed, were engaged in meaningful educational activities. Staff to student ratios were being maintained, as was proper staff positioning. Interviews with youth supported the high number of activities, and there were no complaints in that regard. Two of the youth interviewed had been involved in physical restraints. Most of the remaining seven had not even seen a restraint. Both child and staff interviews were generally positive. There were no issues related to safety reported. Fire drills were run in accordance with regulations.

It was noted that the necessary information required by Bulletin #3140-08-01 was being maintained by the agency. Referrals, discharges, arrests, as well as restraints were being maintained in individual case records as well as in a master log. Truancy tracking for community students is also maintained at the program. Monitoring of EPSDT screenings is done by the medical department and recorded in medical file. Post release tracking as to employment and school enrollment is also being done.
